This sura "Taha" was revealed in the city of Mecca. "It is a chapter of the Book of Healing" and contains verses on the importance of faith in God, the signs of the Day of Judgment, and how a human being can emulate God (Allah). "This call to the right-doer comes after the prayer of night and before the prayer of morning. It was revealed at a time when the Prophet (peace_be_upon_him) was busy in his functions of prayer and almsgiving (Zakaat). The Prophet (peace_be_upon_him) was in the prayer place when a God-conscious man came to him and informed the Prophet that he had seen the angel of death approaching him." By choosing to give us these verse numbers and titles, the Qur'an not only shows that it will be understood by those who read it, but also it shows that other Muslims who know about these things will be able to help those who are not familiar with them. As regards the order of the verses in Surah Ta-Ha, they follow the same order as the sura beginning with the longest verse and ending with the shortest one. The verses are arranged in the following sequence: (1) The first three verses deal with the importance of faith in God.
