A: `mysql_query("UPDATE tabel LIMIT 1 SET xfield="".$xfield."" WHERE id="".$id.""");` How to Get Started Building a Business in Cincinnati First and foremost, congratulations! You're looking to start a business. A business can be a small business or a large one and it can be a sole online, solely brick and mortar, or a combination. In the example I've worked on, we've worked to promote our small business businesses to clients, using a strong social media presence. So, where should you start? As you're looking for business ideas, one of the best places to get your feet wet is in Cincinnati. Cincinnati is rich in history and culture and with the boom of our economy and people moving into the area, Cincinnati is still the heart of the Midwest. As of 2006, the U.S Census Bureau reports the population in Cincinnati as 354,525 people and in the surrounding counties as 389,925 people. So, it's safe to say there are plenty of people who will be willing to buy your goods and services.

Where to Find Business Opportunities

Where do you go to start looking for business opportunities? I'll address this in a minute, but first, here are some resources you can use.

1. Cincinnati.com Business Directory A Business Directory can help you in a few different ways. First of all, these directories can often list the type of business, its size, history and the costs of the business. For our small business, we have used this directory to go after both our local businesses as well as national businesses. The cost is nominal, the results are outstanding. You can also look for an Ohio Business License/Certificate to help ensure your business is going through all the correct steps for the business you are looking to start.
2. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce is a great place to start with your search of business opportunities. They offer information on how to start and run a business in Cincinnati as well as the forms you'll need to start the application process. You can find the
